

HISTORY

We are Cave Castle, a captivating country house hotel nestled in the charming village of South Cave, East Yorkshire. Steeped in history, this enchanting property has a story that spans centuries. The original castle, built by the De Stuteville family in the medieval era, set the foundation for what would become the remarkable estate you see today.

Throughout its history, Cave Castle has been home to illustrious owners who left their indelible mark on the property. One notable family is the Barnards, wealthy landowners and merchants who constructed the Victorian mansion in the 1870s. Their influence extended beyond the castle's grand architecture, as they played a pivotal role in the development of South Cave itself. From local businesses to philanthropic endeavors, their presence shaped the town's growth and prosperity.

Over the years, the castle has served various purposes, from a girls' boarding school to a convalescent home during World War II. In 1972, it was transformed into a luxury hotel, blending its rich heritage with modern comforts and amenities.

As a guest at Cave Castle, you become part of its enduring legacy. Distinguished visitors, including royalty, celebrities, and politicians, have graced these halls over the years. The hotel embraces its rich heritage while offering modern comforts and amenities. The meticulously renovated rooms, complemented by exquisite dining experiences, promise a truly memorable stay. Be it a leisurely retreat or a special occasion, Cave Castle invites you to create your own chapter in its captivating history.
